

HALLMARK '71

*The school was founded with certain goals and desires which developed into a prophecy for future generations. The school year of 1970-1971 was affected by all the past years of the school's existence and by the individuals who lived and worked within these halls. Traditions of academics, social organizations and activities, religion, fine arts and close friendships are just a part of the legacy left to the 1971 RH*SM corporation.*

The 1971 Hallmark staff dedicates this yearbook to the existence of the school, which not only fulfills the prophecy of past generations but is creating a legacy for the future. In the midst of this journey, we would like to take note of the people, environs, and spirit that marked this year as a special one.

As a symbol of this journey's progression, we specially note the new building that has enriched our legacy.

A prophecy cannot achieve its full potential if its ideas are not put into practice. The implementation of the RHSM prophecy was the responsibility of the student council with the four prefects each leading for half a semester. The leadership provided by Guri Gurholt, Kristin Osborn, David Browning and Tom Meyer was greatly appreciated by the other members of the council, as well as the entire school. Each grade level from seventh through twelfth is represented on the council by one class member in addition to their class president. The school store manager, Ridgely Gilmore, the publications editors Debbie King, Sue Skinner, Debbie Cohen and Sue Roberson, and the activity directors Ann Nebeker and Mark McGillis are also voting members of the council, with the crucifers as honorary members.

The LION Newspaper, MEDALLIONS Literary Magazine and HALLMARK yearbook are Rowland Hall-St. Marks student life in written form, the prophecy of the school year in historical presentation.

The HALLMARK staff for 1970-71 decided that the exciting prophecy of the year, reflected in the new building and new curriculum, needed a more elaborate yearbook to represent the school atmosphere. The inclusion of color pages, more activities and additional pages plus the involvement of almost one third of the Upper School student body created the book which the HALLMARK staff hopes will be representative. The executive staff worked many long hours on the final details while the general staff helped organize school pictures and money raising activities such as the Tick Market.

This year's traditional Christmas pageant, Candle and Carol, was presented in St. Mark's Cathedral by students from both Upper and Lower schools. The ceremony included a procession of actors and students singing "O Come, O Come Emanuel", followed by a colorful tableau and a series of Lessons and songs.

CANDLE AND CAROL

BAZAAR

One of the high points of RHSM's extracurricular activities during this past year was the annual all-school Bazaar. Even an unexpected rainstorm did not dampen the spirits of participants as they sampled delights ranging from musical improvisations to handicrafts to foreign foods.

In addition to affording members of each grade an opportunity to work together on booths, it also gave enjoyment to those not directly connected to the school, such as parents and alumni.

"The Skin of Our Teeth" by Thornton Wilder was presented in St. Margaret's Chapel, restoring an old tradition. Mrs. Mary Clark and Lynda Purdy directed the play which was performed Nov. 20 and 21. The principal characters were Sabina: Sarah Sneed, Mrs. Maggie Antrobus: Kristin Osborn, Mr. George Antrobus: David Browning, Henry: Mark McGillis, Gladys: Roberta Young.

An earlier look has shown student life in its more formal aspects. Formality, however, must know its limits and the students at RHSM have been able to go beyond and find or create their own limits of relaxation.

CHAPEL

"YOUR DAILY LIFE IS YOUR TEMPLE AND YOUR RELIGION. WHENEVER YOU ENTER INTO IT TAKE WITH YOU YOUR ALL."

...THE PROPHET. KAHLIL GIBRAN

Each person's attitude and actions contributed to the atmosphere of each chapel service, whether they were student body members or elected chapel officers. The crucifers were selected by the Bishop's Committee who reviewed recommendations made by the students and selected two students to be appointed by Bishop Watson. This year Ridgely Gilmour and Sue Roberson were selected to lead the students in the chapel services and religious observances.

The role of the acolytes is to help set the altar for a service, assist at the service and help prepare for the services. The acolytes are separated into three groups: servers at communion, servers at service and those who can do both. They include: Janice Carey, Emma Diamant, Becky Tribe, Elizabeth Murray, Mary Beth Updike, Mimi Moreno, Guri Gurholdt, Cleve Barkdull, Kathy Jefferson, Anne Worthington, Mike Christenson, Mary Jensen, Debbie King, Lynda Purdy, Kim Feeny, Harvey King, Jeff Roberson, Ann Nebeker, David Browning.

In addition to participating in each chapel service, the Chapel Choir also existed for the first time as a full-credit class. Yet rehearsals were so relaxed and participation so enthusiastic that the class held a warmth rarely found in the ordinary classrooms. Attempting to share this spirit with others, the choir performed in several capacities during the year. They sang for civic organizations and were televised on Educational Television. Also, they revived the ancient religious service called Evensong.

Much of the credit for such ebullience undoubtedly goes to the choir's directress Mrs. Helen Mitcheltree, who conceived the idea of reviving the Evensong services. Members of the choir included Janet Katz, Lynda Purdy, Malka Kassel, Emma Diamant, Sue Skinner, Sarah Sneed, Kay Ritchie, Elizabeth Murray, Kristin Osborn, Mary Beth Updike, David Browning, Stephen Goldsmith, Mark McGillis, Marc Browning, Dee Amoss, Michael Christenson, Ed Axelrad and Grant Burgess.

RHSM's primary goal for its students is the gain of knowledge, true, but not through drudgery alone. For this reason exist the following clubs--so that students and faculty members alike may share in enjoyable extra curricular learning experiences.

"Keep a watchful eye over yourself as if you were your own enemy; for you cannot learn to govern yourself, unless you first learn to govern your own passions and obey the dictates of your conscience."

--Kahlil Gibran--

Several of the past year's students involved themselves in science outside of school. They and their faculty advisor, Mr. Lyman Lewis, planned field trips and worked toward participation in the Utah State Science Fair. Thus they broadened their knowledge of, and interest in the scientific world.

Science Club, Where are you???????

This past year's French Club encourages students interest in improving their awareness of French culture by hosting several activities. Members enjoyed making crepe suzettes, seeing French Movies, such as L'ENFANT SAVAGE as well as occasional social functions. Mrs. Joan Patterson was the clubs advisor and invited all to attend the meetings.

With Mindy Rosenblatt's exuberant leadership and Mr. Lyman Lewis' bemused counsel, RHSM outdoorsmen formed one of the school's most active organizations; their purpose was to complement academics by physical activity. Thus emerged a year-long pursuit of wilderness areas in which club members could try their skills at various sports. Fair weather found them hiking; winter brought out their toboggans, innertubes, skis, and snowshoes.

Library Club

Under the direction of Mrs. Carey, the Library Club provided its members with an opportunity to learn how libraries are operated, and with the help of its members, the library was made a more pleasant place for the other students. Members learned about different classification systems, made a picture file, and kept the books and card catalogue in order.

Members: Deborah King, Carey Miller, Guri Gurholt, Deborah Cohen, Mary Beth Updike, Janice Carey, Sue Roberson, Becky Nibley, and Nancy Lindem.

Photography Club

Starting the year off with a bang, thirty-two interested students attended the first meeting. They were divided into smaller groups, which advisor Mr. Don Clarkson instructed in the art of taking and developing pictures. Four or five members became the core of the group and created the photography club.

Creative Dance Club

This year RHSM girls became acquainted with a new field of artistic expression through the Creative Dance Club. Members became aware of techniques of motion, by which they strived to express themselves. The program, instructed by Miss Carey Kittell, was further enhanced by occasional performances of guest artists from the University of Utah.

Gourmet Club

This past year Mr. Robert Cooley, advisor, and the Senior Class put their minds and skills together to see what they could cook up. The food combinations varied to enchant them with delightful meals. Each month they used a different host kitchen: the school, a restaurant and several private homes.

Symphony Sub-Debs and Squires

Several RHSM students interested in music joined these two clubs in order to attend concerts given by the Utah Symphony. Club membership entitled them to both reduced ticket prices and social functions.

Model United Nations

This year's members of the Model United Nations represented Spain. There was a general enjoyment and eagerness in learning about Spain's history, government, and geography. At the beginning of the year, members were welcome at an after-school party given by the club's faculty sponsor, Mrs. Martha Miller.

In preparation for their role as delegates, members reported to each other on pertinent books and articles. They also saw maps and slides of Spain and the United Nations. They even learned something about spanish food at a delicious dinner given for them by Mrs. Sidney Cohen.

There were many in the M.U.N., and all activities proved exciting and worthwhile.

SPORTS PROGRAMS

The sports program is a health blend of student and school directed activities. Nothing daunted the student formed soccer team, and the same indefatigable spirit was found among members of the tennis club who enjoyed themselves although not competing interscholastically.

The soccer team was led by captain Ridgely Gilmour and included Dave Warner, Alan Marshall, David Woodman, David Browning, Kim Feeny, Paul Reynolds, Harvey King, Peter Tucker, Dee Amoss, John Amoss, Ted Norman, John Ballinger, Tom Meyer, and Chris Browning.

Skating and Bowling

Bowling and Ice skating are included in the winter sports program, and are enjoyed by both students and faculty members on Friday afternoons.

GREAT SKIING: PARK CITY WEST

One of the highlights of the winter sports program is the great Utah skiing. Over one hundred upper school students spend each Friday afternoon practicing skiing techniques ranging from the most basic to the most skillful and demanding.

Assistant housemother Miss Kathy Nackowski and 16 other girls turned "A" building's third floor into one of RHSM's most creatively personal areas. Drab, unoccupied bedrooms were transformed into unique expressions of each occupant's personality. Compensating for a certain isolation from homelife, the boarders and housemothers held many various activities, often with the invaluable assistance of Mrs. Jam Woodman and Mr. George Fox. Picnics, rock concerts, and the annual Boarder-sponsored Yuletide Party given for faculty members were only a few of their enjoyable diversions. Boarders came from the following places: Mexico, Japan, Texas, Wyoming, California, Nevada, Utah, and Montana.

WITH LOVE TO AUNT HENRI

Aunt Henri (alias Mrs. Henrietta Pearson) is part of both the school's recent and not-so-recent legacy; sharing experiences for the past 21 years with RHSM boarding students, driving a school bus, helping plan school functions--she is so committed to, and with, this school, that we honor her here.

--THE PROPHET, Kahlil Gibran

Prophets, regardless of their era, having its own seers to carry out its early prophecy. As it states, Rowland Hall-St. Mark's School's

of its students into individuals--- underneath our identical uniforms are distinct beings.

The prophecy of individuality begins its fulfillment as students enter the

This year the eighth graders wanted to prove their equality to the older students. They set out to do this by earning the second largest amount of money at the annual school bazaar--through ingenuity they sold almost $180 worth of raffle tickets. As an example of this class' responsibility and empathy, they planned to donate various goods to a needy family for Christmas.

...Eighth Grade...

The eighth graders fought for their right to be included in the upper School activities. However, they did not seek that privilege merely for the sake of its possession, for they were astute enough to know that they . . . "can only be free . . . when they cease to speak of freedom (only) as a goal and a fulfillment."

"Every two seconds a life is given to the world and is cast into the moving stream of history. Sooner or later, as has been done since the beginning of time, each individual begins his search for a faith by which to live. In his quest for that faith each turns to something higher than himself---a body of ideas which promises to give meaning to his life."

JUNIOR CLASS

As intraclass friendships deepen and responsibilities and experiences are shared, a closeness develops among the Juniors.

This year the Eleventh Grade has become more involved with school life. As a result, they hope they are becoming more mature and responsible; they are realizing the necessity of cooperation with the school administration as well as with faculty and other students. It is this realization that will help them next year when their influence as Seniors becomes important to the entire Upper School. They are now attempting to modernize several RHSM traditions--such as the restricted campus and the Junior Prom--keeping the school's prophecy up to date.

"It is to charge all things you fashion with a breath of your own spirit."

STAFF AND MAINTENANCE

The school could not function without the love and aid of those persons at work "behind the scenes." They range from recent graduates of RHSM to seasoned participants in the school's daily life.

Because their devotion to the school is such, they involve themselves even more deeply than their contracts specify. Brick and Alex, for example, work until late at night developing photographs for inclusion in the HALLMARK . . . Margaret and Mary thoughtfully bake a "surprise" birthday cake for each student in the boarding department . . . Maury, although occupied with his job as Head of Maintenance, nonetheless sees that many odd jobs found around RHSM get done. Truly, these friends show that . . .

"Work is love made visible."

FACULTY

Rowland Hall-St. Mark's has a prophecy and a goal of academic exploration and excellence; part of which is a progression toward that goal each year. Students alone cannot achieve it, fine facilities can only inspire it, but an involved and working faculty can put all the pieces together. They can create a sphere of student-teacher trust, with all its personal commitments, conducive to learning.

Administration

The role of RHSM's administration is to complement experience with the vigor of the school's prophetic goals. The Board of Trustees, and its president, Bishop Watson, represent those persons concerned with the growth and stature of the school. Several teachers and students have joined sub-committees of the Board to represent the school's totality and ability to keep communication open.

Board members include: Mrs. John C. Adair, Mr. Douglas A. Bean, Mr. H. Paul Bisping, Mr. Bill Boynton, Mrs. Bruce Browning, Mr. Albert Colton, Mrs. Alke Diamant, Mrs. Jules Dreyfous, Mrs. Virginia P. Frobes, Mr. Leonard Lewis, Mrs. Robert E. McConaughy, Mrs. Donald A. Penney, Mr. William Purdy, Mr. Alden G. Roach, Jr., Mr. Joseph Rosenblatt, Mr. Gilbert Shelton, Mrs. Allen Shott, Mr. M. Walker Wallace, Dr. James T. Weston, Mr. Frank Weems.

Rt. Rev. Richard Watson

Michael G. Koetter

William M. Purdy

Mr. Koetter, as dean of students is responsible for coordination of the scheduling of classes, students, and faculty. He is closely associated with students through his two math classes, marble games in the hall, advising the senior class, sponsoring field trips, girl's trip to San Francisco, boy's river trip and keeping morale up with his continuous punning.

Through his responsibility as the headmaster, Mr. Purdy strives to integrate and effectively manage all areas of the school. He is associated with the student body through his role as both Geology teacher and friend where his faith in the students, and his compassion for their problems, merits deep respect.

The year has again come to a dramatic end. As this year's editor of the RHSM HALLMARK, I have two things to say: I'd never wish this job to even my worst enemy; and more importantly, the preceeding 97 pages would never have been if it were not for the HALLMARK Advisor: Mrs. Dooley Clarkson, my five co-editors: Mary, Mike, Steve, Mark, and Jan, and the much appreciated help of staff and non-staff members. I'm sure I'll be leaving out many people worthy of mention, but I'd like to thank as many as I can think of at the moment: Mr. Don Clarkson, for quoting Shakespeare at one of our 11:00 P. M. sessions and allowing us to permanently borrow his wife; Mr. Bill Purdy, for bringing blueberry pie; Brick and Alex, for taking time off from their janitorial duties to develop our pictures; Mr. Mike Koetter, for cutting cardboard squares, handling all mathematical problems, and caring; Mr. Robert Cooley, for lending us his lab for purposes unknown to him, and his artistic touches; Phoebe, for waiting to clean up after us; and for everyone who helped in any way.

It has been an important year for RHSM. With a new building, new ideas, and new hopes, it has offered fresh challenges for all. The HALLMARK has tried to collect some of the memories and give them to you, the students, with the hope that next year will begin with the good things of this year.

I wish the best of luck to next year's editor; may you rest in peace.
